Crime victim turned counsellor Ann O'Neill has won a $10,000 scholarship.

A VICTIM of crime who has dedicated her life to supporting other victims has been awarded the City of Perth's $10,000 professional development scholarship.

Dr Ann O'Neill is the co-founder and Director of Angelhands, a community organisation dedicated to victims of serious crime.

The scholarship is awarded under the Perth Convention Bureau's annual professional development scholarship program.

In her role as Director of Angelhands, the City of Stirling resident counsels, advocates and champions the needs and rights of crime victims within the community.

Dr O'Neill plans to put the scholarship funds towards conferences – the Australian National Victims of Crime Conference and the US-based National Office Victims Assistance Conference in Philadelphia in August.
